Latitude - Suffolk indie-fest adds more to bill and gets greener

Already looking pretty solid with a rack of headliners not to be sniffed at (Franz, Sigur Ros, Interpol, Elbow, Mars Volta, Tindersticks, Grinderman...) Latitude Festival has just offered up another dribble of acts performing over the weekend. Thus:

OBELISK ARENA

BRITISH SEA POWER* *FOALS

UNCUT ARENA

BLONDIE

SUNRISE ARENA

CRYSTAL CASTLES

All pretty spangly if you ask us. And there is also news of how the festival will boost its environmental credentials, with Arcola Theatre - hosts of the theatre arena (it's "more than just a music festival", folks) - announcing that their area will be powered entirely by a fuel cell that operates almost silently, so we're told, and will produce nothing but electricity and clean water, bringing the event's carbon footprint right down. Bonus! It is a jaw-troublingly beautiful area too, so deserved of the kid-gloves treatment.
